INTRODUCTION

Follow along as our group of industry experts guide you through our Summer Club Seminars – a series of videos curated to deliver exclusive business tips to our community of professionals.

From insider photography advice to tips on sustainable renovation, get the rundown from each webinar from this e-book then dive deeper by watching our recorded sessions.

SESSION ONE

Get insider tips on how to create a winning portfolio, with expert advice on styling shots, image composition, working with a photographer, and how to get your work featured in editorials.

Session one doubles as a photography workshop, filled with advice on creating a competitive portfolio to market your business both online and in editorials.

In this seminar, we'll be covering:

- Why good photos matter for a design business
- If you should hire a photographer and how to work with one
- The do's and don'ts of planning your shot list
- Mistakes to avoid when styling and taking pictures
- What makes a magazine-worthy interior design photo
- How to get your work featured in the Houzz Magazine

Presenter: Anna Coburn

Senior Manager Client Success, Houzz UK/IE and DE

Anna has been with Houzz for more than 8 years. She leads the UK and German Customer Success teams, which collaborate closely with our Houzz Pro subscribers. Anna's team specialises in both marketing and software expertise.

Speaker: Amanda Pollard

Senior Editor, Houzz UK and IE

Amanda is part of the UK Editorial team, producing articles that inform Houzz's homeowner community on all aspects of renovating their homes, while showcasing the work of our professionals.

SESSION TWO

02

How to Renovate Sustainably

Learn how to carry out a sustainable renovation and create more environmentally friendly homes, with tips on everything from second-hand sourcing to considering product lifecycles.

How to Renovate Sustainably

Session two is built for those keen on working more sustainably, with tips on common barriers, how to overcome them, and where to start.

In this seminar, we'll be covering:

- Areas where you can work more sustainably
- How to bring your clients on board
- Do you really need a demolition day?
- Green infrastructure and greener energy
- Using sustainably sourced and recycled materials
- How to design for biodiversity

Speaker: Kate Burt

Writer, Houzz UK and IE

Kate is a former broadsheet journalist and design columnist who now writes and edits stories for Houzz UK. She has a special interest in sustainability and writes to inform and inspire both Houzz's homeowner and professional communities. Alongside house tours and how-to stories, topics Kate has recently covered range from vegan interior design to low-impact kitchen renovations and how to avoid waste in architecture.

Speaker: Cat Hoad

Chair of Absolute Product Management

Cat founded Absolute Project Management in 2010, specialising in residential interior design and renovation across London and Brighton. Absolute Project Management focuses exclusively on sustainable design practices, emphasising energy efficiency, renewable materials, and minimising waste through careful planning and reuse.

Absolute Project Management is a founding member of Interior Design Declares, the sustainability pledge by the interior design industry. Cat also chairs the Steering Group and started (as well as runs) Phase 3 Creative, a sustainability consultancy advising on the options for low-impact renovation of period properties.
